Learn how Epicor HCM can do all this and more by contacting an Epicor representative today.

The Epicor HCM Candidate Connect module extends your recruiting capabilities allowing applicants to find and apply for open positions online. Applicants can attach their resume to their profile and provide a complete picture of their skills and capabilities whether it is for an open requisition or an unsolicited submittal.

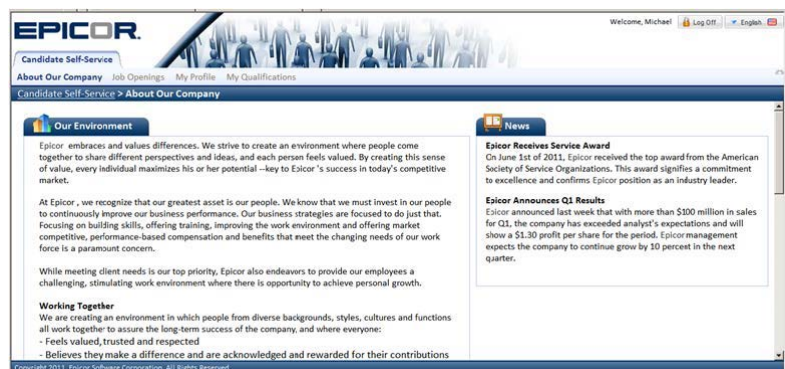

Candidate Connect is integrated with the Epicor HCM Core HR module functionality. This helps recruiters save time, increase productivity, and better manage talent through the acquisition process. And applicants can edit their information anytime, at their convenience, to ensure that their online profile is always up to date.

Applicants can provide recruiters with background information on themselves showcasing their qualification for a specific position. From a Web browser, applicants can provide a complete picture of their career and background by entering their work and education history, provide details of their certifications, skills and abilities, and list any professional memberships and awards. This gives recruiters a complete picture of the applicant to compare to the requirements for the position.

Coupled with Core HR, recruiters have tools to approve requisitions, filter applications through qualification matches and knockout questions, update status, costs, and even makes notes for better record keeping throughout the hiring process.

Let your recruiters spend more time interviewing and assessing the candidate than sorting through stacks of paper applications and resumes. Check out Candidate Connect and Epicor HCM today.
